

F4000/CLEMATIS VITREOUS CHINA URINAL

Falcon Waterfree® urinal systems reduce water and sewer costs, lower maintenance and repair bills, and create more hygienic, odor-free restrooms. Our patented three part system, including vitreous china bowl, sloped housing and cartridge, eliminates the need for water, conserving up to an average of 40,000 gallons (150,000 liters) or more of water per urinal each year.

The Falcon F-4000 waterfree urinal is constructed of vitreous china and is a wall hung, wall outlet unit. Its smaller size is ideal for installations with space limitations. The stylish design of this waterless urinal combines an attractive appearance with functionality and efficiency. The F-4000 meets ANSI/ASME A112.19.19-2006 for vitreous china non-water urinals and is CSA approved. It also complies with ADA guidelines and ANSI A117.1 for accessible and usable buildings and facilities and with the International Plumbing Code, National Standard Plumbing Code and Uniform Plumbing Code requirements.

BENEFITS

- Uses no water for operation
- Five times less bacteria than flush urinals
- Reduced water and sewer costs
- No costly flush valve or sensor repairs
- No replacement sealant needed
- Provides downhill flow, helps reduce clogs
- Minimal care and easy cleaning
- Improved hygiene and safety
- Dual barrier protection
- Effectively odor-free
- Ideal for limited space

“Falcon Waterfree urinals are predicted to be 500 times more effective against back migration of sewer gases as compared to conventional P-trap water barriers.”
